

Task Force On Sexism Named

Barbara Thompson, state superintendent of schools, will have the final say on recommendations made by a recently organized task force on sex role stereotyping in Wisconsin public schools. It was noted when the group met for the first time in Madison Tuesday.

The group is charged with reviewing the way boys and girls are treated in the schools and is to make recommendations based on its investigations.

The goals should be designed to heighten awareness and ability of school staffs and students in dealing with sexism and stereotyping and school environment.

A progress report is to be submitted to Supt. Thompson on April 15 with a preliminary draft of a final report due June 16 and the final statement made by Nov. 17.

If the final report is approved by Mrs. Thompson, it will be forwarded to local school districts to be used at the discretion of local school officials.

Three subcommittees of the task force were named to deal with major areas including sexism among school board members and administrators, among teachers in the classroom, and among those who provide pupil support services such as guidance counselors.

On the subcommittee for administrators and school board members are Carol Gunderson, LaCrosse, a member of the school board; Margaret Dinges, president of the Milwaukee School Board; Leonard Lee, Milwaukee, a member of the Wisconsin Women's Political Caucus; Barbara Powers, assistant principal of LaFollette High School, Madison; and Herbert Grover, district administrator of Niagara Public Schools.

The subcommittee for sexism in the classroom includes Eileen Kelz, a Marshfield parent; Landon Risteen, Chicago, editorial vice president of Scott, Foresman and Co.; a publishing company; Barbara Roberts, a Wausau teacher, and Gloria Gilmer, a Milwaukee Area Technical College teacher and member of the State Advisory Committee of the US Civil Rights Commission.

Members of the subcommittee on pupil support services are Joseph Mezzano, professor of counselor education, University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh; Saul Sorin, Milwaukee, director of B'nai B'rith and the Milwaukee Jewish Council; and Julie Stafford, a Chippewa Falls teacher; and Rosalia Quintana de Hachmeister, Elkhorn, a counselor with the Wisconsin State Employment Service and president of the Latin Council of Wisconsin.

Auxiliary Presents Check

Sister Augusta, administrator at St. Nicholas Hospital, was presented with a check for $1,000 for new surgical equipment Monday, when members of the hospital auxiliary convened at Christopher Hall.

In acknowledging the gift, Sister Augusta expressed appreciation for the work of the group, both monetarily and in extending its cheer and goodwill to patients.

The session was conducted by Mrs. Albert Braun, president, who was re-elected to a second term, along with Mrs. Orville Brandt, first vice president; Mrs. James Scheib, second vice president; Mrs. Edward Gruenke, treasurer, and Mrs. Harold Heinenman, secretary.

Guest speaker for the evening was Judy

Eberhardy, practical nursing instructor at Lakeshore Technical Institute. According to the instructor, certification and licensing follow completion of courses by students in each of the three programs, nursing assistant, practical nursing and registered nursing. Members of the auxiliary were informed that very high qualifications are required by the state.

In conclusion, the speaker stated that scholarships are available for the increasing number of students, including many who are married.

Entertainment was provided by the Melody Mates, a Sweet Adelines quartet comprised of Judy Renzelmann, Virginia Bolle, Alexia Burns and Char Galbraith.

Korean-Vietnamese Adoption Program Scheduled Friday At Howards Grove

Mrs. Bertha Holt, wife of the late Harry Holt, (founder of the Holt Adoption Program), has just returned to the USA from a trip to Korea and Vietnam. She is scheduled to speak to persons interested in either sponsorship or adoption of Korean or Vietnamese orphans.

This meeting will be open to the public at 7 p.m. on Jan. 24 at Trinity Lutheran Church in Howards Grove, following a 5 p.m. potluck supper with Wisconsin families who have already adopted children through the Holt agency.

Over 30 families who have adopted "Holt" youngsters are expected to attend the evening's program honoring Mrs. Holt. Mrs. Holt was "Mother of the Year" in 1966.

Mrs. Holt is the author of several books on her experience with Korean adoptions. "Seed From the East" inspired thousands of other couples to welcome American children into their own families, for her descriptions of the joys and problems of adding eight Korean children to their already-large family is a delightful story.

Mead Public Library in Sheboygan is featuring a display on Korea and Adoption during this week prior to Mrs. Holt's Wisconsin visit.

Between 1955 and 1974, the Holt Adoption Program placed 12,868 children into permanent loving families. In 1973 alone, 1,191 children were placed in European homes and 1,646 into American homes.

Besides the international adoptions, the Holt agency also maintains Korean foster homes, teenage group homes, facilities for retarded children, a hospital, services for physically handicapped, and counseling for unmarried mothers (as an attempt to reduce the rate of abandonment).

Churches and individuals who contribute to the Holt International Children's Fund are especially invited to hear Mrs. Holt speak, as are social workers and other child care professionals. There will be ample time to answer questions from the audience regarding intercountry adoption procedures.

Persons who are interested in obtaining more information about Korean or Vietnamese adoptions may contact Mrs. Max McClellan, R. 1, Cleveland, Wis. 53015, or write Holt Adoption Program, P.O. Box 2420, Eugene, Oregon 97402.

"In this day when there are more than enough homes available for infants, our inclination is to work ever more closely with those agencies and groups that demonstrate a concern for the child with the most needs, and we are searching out families who are open to accepting a handicapped or a school age child."

— John Adams, Director HAP

FROM ROME, American-born designer Frank Martieri presented his Spring-Summer collection including this evening gown. He shunned patterns and prints for evening and favored dove grey, white, sugar pink, pleated and handkerchief-pointed in chiffon, making a long step backwards to the well-known 1930s.

It's Fashion Week In Rome

By JULIE FLINT
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — Designer Pin cetti is pushing navy and white, and a skirt length just below the knee, for spring and summer.

In the collection he showed Tuesday night at the start of Rome's Fashion Week, Lancetti ignored all other colors for day and cocktail wear. But for evening he expanded into Gauguin flower prints and impressionist pastels.

In contrast to the boldness of his navy and white, Lancetti used only supersoft fabrics — gauzy wools, crepe de chine, georgette — and full, soft shapes that sloped off the shoulder and gathered loosely into the waist.

There were lots of stripes, sometimes teamed with big flower prints, and a fair smattering of spots. Smocking made a comeback, tight across the stomach and bust, and lace was frilled into long, leisurely skirts teamed with businesslike white georgette shirts, collared, cuffed and unbuttoned to the waist.

In a king-size collection of almost 90 models, Lancetti made much of the suit — a fluid, flowing thing that bore no relation to the classic two-piece.

His spring suit could be blown away by a breath of wind. Reaching just below the knee, it had two styles of jacket — one yoked across the bodice and upper arm and the other shirt-style, with an inverted back pleat for fullness.

Underneath went plain white georgette blouses with soft ties at the neck.

Dresses hung from tiny shoulder straps, cut straight above the bust and flounced in the skirt. They were teamed with eye-shading straw hats and open-toed sling-back shoes with slim four-inch heels.

For evening, Lancetti featured concertina-pleated bolero tops, halter-neck blouses, gypsy skirts and curved, frilled shawls.

He showed color combinations of yellow and mauve, pale blue and ivory, and strong flower prints of red, orange, green and yellow.

Designer Tita Rossi, showing earlier Tuesday, used pink and white — romantic snow-white georgettes cut straight above the bust, dotted with tiny pink roses and festooned with velvet ribbon.

To complete the look, she added plump pearl chokers on velvet ribbon.

Zastrow Couple Feted For 45th Wedding Event

The 45th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Zastrow Sr., 712 Mead Ave., was celebrated when relatives were entertained at a surprise dinner, program and reception hosted by their sons and daughters at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wendt of Appleton.

Among those present was Mrs. Ray Kubale of Luxemburg, an attendant at the couple's wedding on Jan. 29, 1930. Vows were exchanged before the Rev. R.E. Heschke at St. Peter Lutheran Church, Hilbert.

Zastrow is a retired Kohler Co. employe, and his wife, the former Viola Peik, worked for Leverenz Shoe Co. prior to retiring.

Their family is comprised of three sons, Earl, Harold and Gordon Zastrow Jr., all of Sheboygan, and four daughters, Mrs. David (Lorraine) Hermann, Sheboygan, Mrs. Frank (Irene) Kosky and Mrs. Francis (Joyce) Coates, both of Madison, and Mrs. Mildred Wendt, Appleton. Another daughter, Gladys, is deceased. The Zastrows are grandparents to 20 children.

Plymouth Club Program Features AFS Student

Photographs and artifacts of Japan were used by Miss Kimiko Tonogai to describe her homeland to members of Plymouth Woman's Club, when the group convened at the city hall.

The American Field Service student, who is making her home with the Eugene Bolles family while attending Plymouth High School, was attired in the costume of her native land. Introduced by Mrs. Elden Amundson, Miss Tonogai served Japanese candy to members as part of her presentation.

Mrs. William Maser, president of the AFS chapter, announced that a paper drive on behalf of the AFS Fund is scheduled for Saturday. She also stated that a series of bridge parties at Quit Qui Oc Manor beginning Jan. 30 will benefit the fund. Reservations will be required.

Musical entertainment was provided by a girls' chorus from St. John Lutheran School. Robert Carpenter directed.

Mrs. Warren Beringer introduced the Girl of the Month, Kendra Heinecke, and her mother, Mrs. Gelaine Heinecke. Miss Heinecke, editor of the 1975 annual, is a member of the mixed chorus, Spanish club and tennis team, and has had roles in the school musicals for the past three years. Kendra was the recipient of a gift and certificate.
